Welcome to the cats' world in KittenKaBoodle! In this set of pieces, cats are colorfully and comically portrayed in musical settings that are at once fun and fanciful. Lyrics in each piece tell a clever and often silly story meant to amuse and delight. Piano students at this early level are invited to enjoy pieces such as "Picture Purrfect," "Flea Season" and "Cowboy Calico." Accompaniments are included for all pieces, making excellent student-teacher duets. We're sure you'll enjoy the whole KittenKaBoodle!

Four Guitars (more or less) is part memoir and part exposition of the modern handmade acoustic guitar. Like so many baby boomers the author took up playing the guitar again after several decades only to discover the instrument all over again but with a deeper and richer appreciation than in his youth. This book chronicles the relearning to play music but really discovering the guitar for the first time. In searching for the variations in guitars caused by different combinations of musical woods the author embarks on a series of guitar tastings among guitar players that reveal more than expected. The lessons learned go beyond the melody and tempo lessons to more subtle appreciation of the relationships between players and their instruments, the beauty and character of hand crafted instruments and the luthiers that build them. In the end the book is an appreciation of the guitar in general and the relationship with four guitars (more or less) in particular.

In 1966, Rebecca Wilson's father, a Union Leader and civil rights activist, was assassinated on the street in San Francisco. Rebecca—known throughout as "Becky"—was three years old. A House with No Roof is Wilson's gripping memoir of how the murder of her father propelled her family into a life-long search for solace and understanding. Following her father's death, Becky's mother, Barbara, desperate for closure and peace, uproots the family and moves to Bolinas, California. In this small, coastal town of hippies, artists, and "burnouts," the family continues to unravel. To cope, Barbara turns to art and hangs a banner that loudly declares, "Wilson's are Bold." But she still succumbs to her grief, neglecting her children in her wake. Becky's brother turns to drugs while her beautiful sister chooses a life on the road and becomes pregnant. As Becky fumbles and hurtles toward adulthood herself, she comes to learn the full truth of her father's death—a truth that threatens to steal her sanity and break her spirit. Told with humor and candor—and with love and family devotion at its heart—A House with No Roof is a brave account of one daughter's struggle to survive.

"In our heart of hearts, we were all natural-born nudists" So writes 112-year-old Zet Quimby in his quirky 2061 memoir, Strange Days Indeed: Memories of the Old World. Wanting to share with his era's new generations how we lived in less enlightened times, he elves into a long vanish era -- our -- exploring why we always covered our bodies. Also, why we ate animals.
