Sarah Bartlett was an Academy Award-nominated film star, an Emmy-nominated television actress and a Tony-nominated stage performer. She was also awarded her very own Varsity Jacket by the former director of the US Department of Music's

Federal Hip Hop Administration. Appearing in over 20 films (including Hearts of Sorrow, Hearts of Celery; Perkwit's Secret Bramboráky (the fourth installment of the Blurg movies), and Shadow of the Fish), she also starred on stage in such shows as Howling at the Moon: The Dog Musical; Billiard Balls of Death; and Dreadful About Those Shock Treatments, Eh? The woman was also an accomplished musician who performed guitar and baglama not only with her own group (Zooey's Lampshade) but also with the Hattiesburg Symphony Orchestra and Industrial Pole Bean Outlet; with the Palm Frond and Banana Spider Symphony Orchestra; and with the '56 Elvis Quintet at the Memphis in November: From Too Cool to Too Cold Music, Art and Law Practice Festival). There were other sides to Sarah, sides that she preferred people not know much about, sides involving Queen Victoria costumes, drinking way too many sodas at one sitting, and that whole ceramic curry serving bowl (from 2400 BCE) incident, which she knew would greatly upset anthropologists all over the world. Here, for the first time, is the entire story of Sarah Bartlett's life, including her children, her husband, her boyfriend, her shoes, her Toyota Cadberry, and her dreams (some of them involving picture frames made of cheese; some of them involving the Poky Little Puppy; some of them involving Gloria Swanson wearing a miniskirt, a pair of orange flip-flops and a T-shirt with a picture of Andy Warhol and the phrase "Hey, look, I'm a can of soup" on it; some of them involving cats with lobster claws for legs; and some of them involving copious amounts of Ranch Dressing). The book also includes over 150 illustrations, and some of them actually make sense. If you're looking for a book that offers the best ratio of cost per laugh, look no further. Further? Farther? Wait, let's think this out. Uhh, farther has an a in it, and measure has an a in it, so farther relates to distance. So, yeah, further is the right adjective to use. The Seattle Drainpipe Gazette says, "Rigatoni is to books as cat hair is to dogs." The Farmington Inquirer calls Rigatoni "unobtrusive," "mildly trapezoidal," and "looks great under some flowerpots." And the Tucson Rock Trader says, "If we crowdfund, we can raise enough money to get this author the serious help he so obviously needs. This isn't a cry for help, this is a sustained scream through a set of Peavey Dark Matter DM 118 Powered PA Subwoofer Speakers."

Gardening in the northern prairie region of the United States is very different from gardening in other areas of the country. It is important to understand that some of the gardening tips gleaned from other books do not give satisfying results on the prairie. This book offers specific advice for gardening in the northern prairie regions of the United States, including the Dakotas and south central Canada. In addition, the book offers thorough, easy to understand advice for both the novice and experienced gardener, no matter where the garden is located.

Whether a secularized morality, biblical worldview, or unstated set of mores, the Victorian period can and always will be distinguished from those before and after for its pervasive sense of the "proper way" of thinking, speaking, doing, and acting. Animals in literature taught Victorian children how to behave. If you are a postmodern posthumanist, you might argue, "But the animals in literature did not write their own accounts." Animal characters may be the creations of writers' imagination, but animals did and do exist in their own right, as did and do humans. The original essays in Animals and Their Children in Victorian explore the representation of animals in children's literature by resisting an anthropomorphized perception of them. Instead of focusing on the domestication of animals, this book analyzes how animals in literature "civilize" children, teaching them how to get along with fellow creatures—both human and nonhuman.

Former Marine sergeants-turned-freelance assassins Rossen and Tommy are hired by Colonel Leonard Oates and Robert Green, an ex-Army major and magazine publisher, to investigate rumors that at least two American soldiers, listed as MIA since Vietnam, are being held and tortured at a POW camp on the borders of Laos, Cambodia, and Vietnam. Reissue.

A series of vignettes about his life spanning from the early 1900s to the present day, Roly Armitage's story is an engrossing read. One can almost imagine sitting across the table from him as he spins tale after tale - perhaps over a beverage. The depression years, World War II, and then earning his degrees as a Doctor of Veterinary Medicine and a Veterinary Surgeon provided the background that launched him into many careers. In each of those careers he excelled, never allowing temporary setbacks to discourage him from attaining his goals. At times you will find yourself shedding a few tears and at other times laughing aloud but you will not be bored. A man of honesty and integrity who has lived life to the fullest and always on his own terms.
