These five songs plus "Dis, quand reviendras-tu?" were translated into German by Belgian-German singer-songwriter Didier Caesar. The song "Göttingen" (named after the German city of Göttingen) is said to have contributed more to post-war German–French reconciliation than any speech by a politician.

Connait-on vraiment les gens qu'on aime ? Gabriel a tout pour être heureux : des parents attentifs, une grand-mère un peu espiègle mais terriblement attachante, une charmante famille... Pourtant, Gabriel passe son temps à fuir ceux qui l'aiment. Pourquoi n'accorde-t-il sa confiance à personne ? Quel secret cherche-t-il à cacher ? L'histoire de Gabriel, ce sont les femmes de sa vie qui nous la racontent. Mère, épouse, amante... Toutes partagent la même affection, tendre et passionnée, pour cet homme mystérieux. Chacune, à sa manière, va tenter de recoller les morceaux du passé, de cerner l'homme qu'elle croyait connaître. On n'estime jamais assez jusqu'où l'amour peut nous mener.

Avant d'interpréter en récital sa chanson « Dis, quand reviendras-tu ? », Barbara avait coutume de dire au public : « A cette époque je chantais seulement les autres ; quand un monsieur me donna l'occasion d'écrire ma première chanson ». Cet homme, Hubert Ballay, fut l'authentique amour impossible de Barbara. Sa vie ? Un vrai roman d'aventures. A 14 ans, en 1942, il sauve des familles juives ; à 16 ans, est cité à l'ordre de la Nation pour ses actes lors de la Libération de Paris. La décolonisation de l'Afrique Noire : Hubert en est acteur, côtoie de Gaulle, Houphouët-Boigny, Senghor, joue un rôle décisif dans la création des premières institutions sociales africaines. Les chansons : il en écrit, en compose, avec Barbara, Petula Clark, et d'autres. Il les édite : chez Barclay, dont il est directeur général, puis dans la société qu'il crée. Et, pour finir, les femmes : Hubert Ballay aime les « ravir », nous raconte sans détour comment il a tenu dans ses bras les plus célèbres, Jacqueline Bouvier, la Princesse Margaret d'Angleterre, Barbara.... Barbara qu'il a tant aimée, qui fut sa compagne de 1959 à 1962, et à laquelle il consacre une grande part de ses mémoires.

En France, tout finit par des chansons' is the well-known phrase which sums up the importance of chanson for the French. A song tradition that goes back to the Middle Ages and troubadours of the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, chanson is part of the texture of everyday life in France - a part of the national identity and a barometer of popular taste. In this first study of chanson in English, Peter Hawkins examines the background to the genre and the difficulties in defining what is and what is not chanson. The focus then moves to the development of the singer-songwriter of chanson from 1880 to the present day. This period saw the emergence of national icons from Aristide Bruant at the end of the nineteenth century through to internationally recognized musicians such as Jacques Brel and Serge Gainsbourg. Each of these figures used chanson to express the particular moral dilemmas, tragic situations and moments of euphoria particular to themselves and their times. The book provides bibliographies, discographies and details of video recordings for each of the singer-songwriters that it discusses. It is both an essential reference guide to the genre and a useful case history of the adaptation of an ancient form to the demands of the modern mass media.

Cinema has been long associated with France, dating back to 1895, when Louis and Auguste Lumi_re screened their works, the first public viewing of films anywhere. Early silent pioneers Georges MZli_s, Alice Guy BlachZ and others followed in the footsteps of the Lumi_re brothers and the tradition of important filmmaking continued throughout the 20th century and beyond. In Encyclopedia of French Film Directors, Philippe Rège identifies every French director who has made at least one feature film since 1895. From undisputed masters to obscure one-timers, nearly 3,000 directors are cited here, including at least 200 filmmakers not mentioned in similar books published in France. Each director's entry contains a brief biographical summary, including dates and places of birth and death; information on the individual's education and professional training; and other pertinent details, such as real names (when the filmmaker uses a pseudonym). The entries also provide complete filmographies, including credits for feature films, shorts, documentaries, and television work. Some of the most important names in the history of film can be found in this encyclopedia, from masters of the Golden Age_Jean Renoir and RenZ Clair_to French New Wave artists such as Fran_ois Truffaut and Jean-Luc Godard.

All American women aspire to have the nonchalant style and grace of French women, that je ne sais quoi that makes all of their habits seem natural and effortless. In Une Femme Française, fashion designer Catherine Malandrino, a Frenchwoman who has lived and worked in the US for thirty years, reveals French women's secrets for an American audience. Readers who loved Ines de la Fressange's Parisian Chic and our own Entre Nous will grab a café crème and learn: - Why you are your own creation, not a slave to the latest fashion. - Why a touch of risqué/masculine/outré makes a woman memorable - The secrets of Jacqueline Kennedy, the avatar for American women who admire the French - Hair and skincare tricks from Paris it-girls - That nonchalance, more than perfume, is sexy - How to seduce anyone - Why red is a necessity - The real reason French women don't get fat: food is family Examines themes of loss and mourning in the late work of Derrida. In this book, Kas Saghafi argues that the notion of "the end the world" in Derrida's late work is not a theological or cosmological matter, but a meditation on mourning and the death of the other. He examines this and several other tightly knit motifs in Derrida's work: mourning, survival, the phantasm, the event, and most significantly, the term salut, which in French means at once greeting and salvation. An underlying concern of The World after the End of the World is whether a discourse on salut (saving, being saved, and salvation) can be dissociated from discourse on religion. Saghafi compares Derrida's thought along these lines with similar concerns of Jean-Luc Nancy's. Combining analysis of these themes with reflections on personal loss, this book maintains that, for Derrida, salutation, greeting, and welcoming is resistant to the economy of salvation. This resistance calls for what Derrida refers to as a "spectro-poetics" devoted to and assigned to the other's singularity. "Saghafi's book makes a remarkable contribution as a coming-to-terms with interminable mourning." — Peggy Kamuf, author of To Follow: The Wake of Jacques Derrida
