BEST NEWS – Belonging Has Nothing to Do with Us At All! Have you ever wondered why a true sense of fulfillment, abundance, freedom, joy, and connection seems elusive? five ways God names Himself in relation to us and how each name adds a layer of truth to how we belong. It has nothing to do with us, but everything to do with Him and He meets us at every turn to prove it. In this six-session video Bible study, dig deep into the characteristics of the God who claims us, considers us, names us, and loves us.

Understanding who we are through who God says He is erases all the boxes we 've put ourselves and others into and unleashes joy-filled freedom. This study challenges groups to get honest and real in their discussion time and to explore the truth in what Scripture says about who God is and what that means about us. It also includes personal “ fun work ” instead of homework that will inspire you to think differently and respond to all things more like a true Child of God. Sessions include: Do I Belong? Twenty-two-year-old Anna ' s unconventional family is prone to raising eyebrows: she lives with two eccentric dads in a small town in rural KwaZulu-Natal and, after surviving her parents ' divorce, she ' s used to the questioning glances of conservative Afrikaans family members and curious neighbours. Now, amid a menagerie of pets and her kaftan-clad mother, Anna must manage the ailing health of one of her dads. Her experiences on her reporter ' s beat don ' t make her days any easier. But how do you remain a supportive daughter and still live your own life? Told with warmth and gentle humour, The Paper House is a celebration of life, love and the family that shapes us.

Sharing the same hyper-realistic dream one night, five people from the same New England town wake up aware of their true identities as cosmic repairmen responsible for fixing the chaos brought about by the universe's sentient beings.

A Place to Belong is a profusely illustrated, intimate, contemporary portrait of Calvert, a three-hundred-year-old fishing village on Newfoundland's southern shore. Often using its residents' own words, Gerald Pocius describes in detail the continual creative encounters between past and present, between individual and community, that make up daily life in Calvert. By accepted standards of tradition, Calvert's culture is declining. Old structures are regularly torn down or renovated; antique household items are replaced with modern conveniences. Pocius argues, however, that the tangible expressions of a culture can be misleading. Calvert's essence is not in the things owned and used by its residents but in the spaces in which those things abide and in the attitudes, values, and obligations that delineate the order of those spaces. From woodlands, water, and fields to yards, gardens, and homes, Calvert's physical and social structure is governed by shared concerns about the community's livelihood and welfare. As a resident of Calvert puts it, "Where you're working in the same space with people you know ... it's just not practical to be falling out with everyone." The sense of community that pervades Calvert is best exemplified by its annual draw for fishing berths. Because productivity varies among offshore fishing grounds, there is no private ownership of fishing rights. Rather, a lottery instituted in 1919 ensures each family the same chances for periodic access to the best fishing berths. The draw continues until all the fishing berths are awarded, but it is common for a family to opt out once they have drawn enough good berths. There are also instances of the most successful fishing operations sharing their catches. From his observations of Calvert's people at work and leisure, Pocius provides evidence to confirm the viability and durability of their culture. He reveals that standard assumptions about culture are inadequate, particularly those based on the primacy of artefacts and on sharp dichotomies between tradition and modernity. Calvert, he shows, belies our notion that declining cultural values and social segmentation are unavoidable side-effects of modernisation and a rise in material well-being. A Place to Belong will promote a constructive scepticism about the ways we perceive and interpret cultures and, most important, will remind us of what it really means to belong to a place.

Become fully aware that you are unconditionally loved and accepted. From a young age, we all learn that cruel words can wound, but Longing to Belong will show you how Scripture can heal your heart. Join Shawna as she turns to Psalm 139 and reveals seven life-giving affirmations that everyone needs: God knows me. He is always with me. I am not invisible. I am wonderfully made. God ' s countless thoughts are for me. I have enemies, but . . . I can walk in victory! Writing with honesty and transparency, Shawna will show you how to handle your hurts and grasp the keys to freedom when others have

If you are at all familiar with Latonya ' s work, believe me when I say that this will definitely be a treat. Every piece that she has written in the past comes straight from the heart and this book of poetry is no different. This book of poems, deals with love, pain and healing in a way that readers can relate to and feel. This journey from love to heartbreak is inspiring in helping those who are dealing with such issues to heal. It speaks to the soul of the reader and literally takes you on a journey with the writer that is indeed incredible. Latonya has the unnerving ability to take what she is feeling and put it in words that inspire and invoke feelings within her readers that may have once been
