how they limit our ability to achieve and sustain intimacy. What really makes love last? Does love ever work the way we say it does in movies and books and Facebook posts? Or does obsessing over those love stories hurt our real-life relationships? When her parents divorced after a twenty-eight year marriage and her own ten-year relationship ended, those were the questions that Mandy Len Catron wanted to answer. In a series of candid, vulnerable, and wise essays that takes a closer look at what it means to love someone, be loved, and how we present our love to the world, "Catron melds science and emotion beautifully into a thoughtful and thought-provoking meditation" (Bookpage). She delves back to 1944, when her grandparents met in a coal mining town in Appalachia, to her own dating life as a professor in Vancouver. She uses biologists' research into dopamine triggers to ask whether the need to love is an innate human drive. She uses literary theory to show why we prefer certain kinds of love stories. She urges us to question the unwritten scripts we follow in relationships and looks into where those scripts

Finding love in less than 90 minutes can seem crazy and superficial. However, the first impression takes shape after a few seconds, and 90 minutes is enough to discover affinities and become attached to the other person. After studying the behavior of thousands of couples, it appears that every human being has a soul mate and that this one is your "matched opposite" (complementary opposite). To better find it, you must learn to recognize it. *Buy now the summary of this book for the modest price of a cup of coffee!
