Abstract: An authoritative text for the general public covers numerous nutrition facts and related controversies. Topics include the human body's basic nutrient needs, food groups, nutrient density, food exchanges and how new food choices complicate the attainment of an adequate diet; recommended nutrient allowances and U.S. and Canadian nutrients surveys; energy nutrients (carbohydrates, lipids, proteins) and their metabolic roles; energy balance vs. overweight, obesity, and underweight; weight control guidelines; water and micronutrients; food safety; nutritional tips for vegetarians and for those who eat out often; and nutritional guidance for various age groups, from birth to the elderly. Food features in each of the 15 chapters link theory with practice and offer advice for everyday living. A section on optional reading (representing controversies) follows each chapter and focuses on nutritional topics of current interest. (wz).

The authors sort fact from fiction to help students and practitioners of sports nutrition present sound advice to athletes on correct nutrition and dietary requirements.

The relationship between nutrition and behaviour is bi-directional in nature, with nutritional factors able to affect activity and disposition, and behavior impacting diet and food intake. This book reviews these links, starting with their complex neurobiological basis, such as in the case of folate deficiency and cognitive decline. It also illustrates how behaviour may determine nutritional choices or status through peer modelling and poor dietary habits. Micronutrients and eating disorders are then critically addressed, with a review of current research methods and results, before extra-nutritional influencers on behaviour such as
